PASTOR'S LETTER

Our Goblin Selves

Pastor Robbie Carnes

The Oxford word of the year, for the first time ever, has been chosen by public vote. The 2022 word of the year is...‘Goblin Mode’. This phrase has been around since 2009, I must have missed it somehow.

According to the Oxford Dictionary, "goblin mode", is a slang term describing "unapologetically, self-indulgent, lazy, slovenly, or greedy" behavior, typically in a way that rejects social norms or expectations". It is often used in the expressions such as "I am in goblin mode", "to go goblin mode" or to "embrace my inner goblin".

While older than the COVID pandemic, it is clear that Goblin Mode sheds light on an emerging aspect of our culture that a mixture of the internet, social media, quarantine isolation, and new standards of social interaction have produced. Dave McNamee, quoted in the Guardian, said he sees it as a state of mind. "Goblin mode is like when you wake up at 2 a.m. and shuffle into the kitchen wearing nothing but a long T-shirt to make a weird snack, like melted cheese on saltines," he said. "It's about a complete lack of aesthetic."

In one sense, it is a reaction to the necessity to constantly present a 'curated self' to the outside world. Wearing pajamas to the grocery store is one example of this. Casper Grathwohl, president of Oxford Languages: "Given the year we've just experienced, 'goblin mode' resonates with all of us who are feeling a little overwhelmed at this point. It's a relief to acknowledge that we're not always the idealized, curated selves, that we're encouraged to present on our Instagram and TikTok feeds." A desire to cut loose and not have to be on show is a prevalent one. There is a sense of streamlining our life so that we resist performing in order to be comfortably genuine.

TV Word expert Susie Dent said: "It seems in some ways quite a frivolous choice but actually the more you dig into it the more you realize it is actually a kind of reaction to the existing state of affairs. We're sort of retreating and no longer want our life to be curated by filters."

All in all, this sounds pretty good. It is the first few steps of a 12 step Recovery Process. Recognize denial and come clean with who you really are. Jesus said to his followers, "If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free." There is a refreshing desire for truth and a restful approach to life that avoids the crushing work of living out the lies. However, there is a darker side to this that is a bit disturbing.

Mia Mercado writes on 'The Cut' website, "Goblin mode is who we are when no one's around to see. In a yucky way, not a deep way." This resonates with my understanding of a goblin as a mythical creature. Based in a Tolkien universe, a goblin is an ugly creature, who does ugly, destructive and selfish things. Related to orcs, goblins are not able to manage well in sunlight. They are creatures that symbolize selfish, sinful desires that are allowed to fully play out and cannot stand to be scrutinized by the full sunlight of truth.

Paul speaks about this in Romans 7. There is the good that he wants to do, but he finds “It happens so regularly that it’s predictable. The moment I decide to do good, sin is there to trip me up. I truly delight in God’s commands, but it’s pretty obvious that not all of me joins in that delight. Parts of me covertly rebel, and just when I least expect it, they take charge.” Goblin mode is not just about not wanting to adhere to cultural standards of cleanliness or aesthetic. It is also about allowing the part of us that is covertly rebelling to fully express itself. If there is a sense of freedom it is that of debauchery. Mia Mercado continues, “[Goblin Mode] has a distinct ferality mixed with all our morbid curiosities. It’s the sudden itch to get on top of a table, rip your clothes off, and screech. You know how dogs get zoomies? Goblin mode is sort of like the human equivalent. It’s more silly than sinister, like Gollum’s personality in Mike Wazowski’s body. Mercado lightens the mood a bit, however the point is that each of us experience a tug between what we know is good for us (and others) and what is not and is simply an expression of our baser qualities. Ephesians 4:27 (NIV) says do not give the Devil a foothold. It would seem that goblin mode is providing license to do just that.

"In goblin mode, an individual will do anything not to feel. Instead, they will escape by binge-watching Bravo or Netflix in bed all day while mindlessly scrolling on social media eating snacks rather than actual food to allow them to lose track of reality altogether," licensed psychotherapist and founder of Westside Counseling Center in Los Angeles Susan Zinn says. Who among us hasn't engaged in this kind of behavior in the past 2-3 years? We have all certainly had plenty of excuses. Depression, anxiety and a feeling of being overwhelmed to name a few. There is even a Saturday Night Live skit about purposely getting COVID so that you can have 8-10 days away from children, work and other responsibilities. Pay extra and they will cut your internet connection so that you can't attend work zoom meetings from home.

While this is all kind of funny, this isn't what Jesus would have for us. As Christians we don't have license to be a goblin. Nor is it healthy to co-exist in a world of apathy toward cultural norms and personal hygiene and a world of curated beach pictures and filtered selfies. Jesus calls us to be integrated people, consistently living our lives as a witness to his love and goodness (Romans 12:2). Certainly we will struggle to take our goblins selves out of the picture and remove the varnished facades that we constantly present to each other. What Jesus is calling us to is a place of honesty. If you are social media faker, be genuine. If you are a goblin, be better and live worthy of the Gospel (Phil 1:27).

If you are considering making a New Year Resolution this year why not consider not going into goblin mode and instead, walk in the light as Jesus is in the light, having fellowship with one another, and trusting in the blood of Jesus that cleanses us from all sin (1 John 1:7).

*Fling wide the portals of your heart; make it a temple set

From earthly use for heaven's employ, adorned with prayer and love and joy.*

God is working through us and the things we do to accomplish positive change in our own lives and in the world. However, we need to be open to God's working. Every time we give of who we are and what we have, we open up a bit more to what God is doing and that gift becomes ministry and mission. Please keep our congregation in prayer as we move together toward discerning what gifts we will make in the coming year. Pledge cards are available in the office, online at <https://ffpc.org/donate/> or contact Kelly to give you pledge.

DEACONS

The ministry of Deacons as set forth in scripture is one of compassion, witness, and service. We share in the redeeming love of Jesus Christ for the poor, hungry, sick, lost, friendless, oppressed, those burdened by unjust policies of structure, or anyone else in distress.

Helping Hands If you are shut-in and need some help, think about calling the church. The Deacons' Helping Hands program may be just what you need.

If you need someone to run an errand or pick up groceries or a prescription, maybe we can help. Call the church office at 810-629-7801 and leave your name, contact number and your need. We will always wear a mask and leave any deliveries at your doorstep.

Non-Food Drive

The Deacon's are addressing a growing need in our community. Did you know that people on certain types of assistance, such as food stamps, can't use it for everyday items like toothpaste, kleenex, toilet paper? To that end, we are collecting non-food items. The care products we are collecting are; toilet paper, deodorant, bodywash/soap, shampoo, toothpaste, toothbrush, laundry soap, band aids, antibiotic cream, dish soap, paper towels, and multi purpose cleaners. Bins are available in Fellowship Hall.

2022 Refugee Welcome Team Year in Review

Refugee Welcome Team

— MAKING MICHIGAN HOME —

We had another extremely successful year as a Welcome Team! Together we helped 18 families and made 26 deliveries. We collected and distributed mountains of housewares and furniture. In addition, we received a small grant from the Presbytery of Detroit to augment our efforts. These funds allowed us to purchase some of the items that are not typically donated, but are in high demand (mattresses, bunk beds, tool kits, and pressure cookers). I am extremely grateful for our team and our supporters near and far!

I would like to share a few highlights from our year of service. One thing that I was not necessarily expecting was the long term relationships that we have built with the families. In the spring of this year and again in the fall we were able to provide furniture for friends and family of Angie and Jonathan M. This wonderful family from Colombia was introduced to us 3 years ago when they had recently arrived and needed help furnishing their home. Over the years they have taken in several families of refugees. Our visits this year were to deliver furniture and housewares for the new families that Angie and Jonathan are supporting. I am continually impressed by the generosity of this young couple.

We also collected items for our friend Rolly as he prepared to travel to Malawi to visit his family. Many of you remember that Rolly was the very first refugee that our group worked with when we began our efforts 4 years ago. Over the past four years this group has helped to make it possible for Rolly to send his children, who are still living in a refugee camp in Malawi, to school. Private school fees are expensive, but as non-citizens, the two boys do not qualify for public school. I know that both Rolly and Sergine are grateful for the support that we have given over the years. In November Rolly was able to visit his family for the first time in four years! Every year we pray that this family will be reunited. It is my most fervent prayer that 2023 will be that year.

Of course I cannot forget to mention the marriage of two refugees who were welcomed by our team. Sayna and Salah were married in June and are living happily in Grand Blanc. They are both working full time jobs and attending Mott CC. Sayna was recently invited to join the National Honor Society at Mott! Theirs is truly a resettlement success story. Even though none of us could have anticipated this match, I am overjoyed that they found each other and that we were a part of this happy tale.

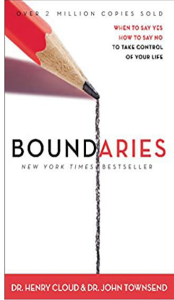

When this work group began I did not anticipate the long-term connections that we would form. It has truly been wonderful to meet and develop relationships with people from all over the globe. I am grateful for all the good that this group has done these past 4 years and am excitedly looking forward to continuing this important work in 2023.

Sincerely,

Sarah Martin-Fanone

Sunday Morning NEW January Study

Join Pastor Robbie and Tina Ritchie for a 9 week study on Boundaries January 8 – March 12 from 11:30AM – 12:30 PM in the Conference Room

A boundary is a personal property line that marks those things for which we are responsible. In other words, boundaries define who we are and who we are not. Sounds simple, yes? Then why do we often find ourselves forgetting our own limits and limitations, setting ourselves up for more difficulties than expected?

New Year Women's Study: Isaiah: Striving Less and Trusting More by Melissa Spoelstra

Isaiah communicated clearly that followers of God could trust in Him. In 7 weeks of group sessions, unpack Isaiah's words to reveal that you can trust God more than your own human effort or the counterfeits the world suggests. You won't be striving harder, but instead trusting more deeply in the Faithful One who is so worthy of our utter dependence. In Him you'll find the comfort and peace you need to sustain you.

Unit 17 – Return to the Land (Ezra, Obadiah, Haggai, Zechariah)

After the Israelites' disobedience led to 70 years of exile in Babylon, God kept God's promise to bring God's people home to Judah. Prophets encouraged the people to rebuild the temple. The prophet Zechariah told of a future King who would come humbly on a donkey. God later kept God's promise to send King Jesus.

1/1 The Captives Came Home
1/8 The Temple Was Rebuilt
1/15 Zechariah the Prophet

Big Picture Question: How is Jesus the perfect Prophet? Jesus perfectly reveals God the Father and fulfills what the prophets spoke.

Unit Key Verse: For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future. ~ Jeremiah 29:11

Unit 18 – The People Restored (Nehemiah, Esther, Malachi)

After years of living in sin, God's people were sent into exile. The Southern Kingdom of Judah was captured by Babylon. Daniel's visions of the future showed that God is in control at all times. God used faithful people to continue God's plan to provide salvation through Jesus.

1/22 Esther Saved Her People
1/29 The Walls Rebuilt
2/5 God's People Repented
2/12 Malachi the Prophet

Big Picture Question: Who is in control of everything? God is in control of everything in heaven and on earth.

Unit Key Verse: And the God of all grace, who called you to his eternal glory in Christ, after you have suffered a little while, will himself restore you and make you strong, firm and steadfast. ~ 1 Peter 5:10

Love and Logic Relationship Skills Work for Everyone – not just children!

With a flexible menu of skills available with our approach, as well as the use of common sense, adults using Love and Logic might take different approaches with similar situations. Nevertheless, the "Love and Logic" approach should always look like the following:

- A loving attitude toward the young person. A key principle of the Love and Logic approach is that we preserve the dignity—of the child AND the adult. Does yelling and threatening preserve kids' dignity? How about ours?
- Shared thinking and control. Adults using Love and Logic techniques resist the urge to come up with all the answers and solve all the problems. Instead, they give kids the gift of thinking about and solving problems. They ask lots of questions and give lots of choices, so kids stay in on the action.
- Empathy before consequences and bad news. We are sad for kids, and we hurt for them when they struggle. Our sadness (instead of our anger and frustration) helps them own problems and learn from the consequences. None of this works without empathy.
- Relationships are paramount. If we are not preserving or enhancing relationships, we are not really using Love and Logic techniques.

Take heart! This is a process, not an instant transformation— get started today by visiting loveandlogic.com or speaking with Tina Ritchie.

Live Nativity and Jinglefest Warming Station Recap

THANK YOU to EVERYONE of our cast of characters who braved the cold to be part of the Live Nativity, our craft helpers Hannah and Jennifer Hall, Kelly Sunman-Davis for the picture slide show in Fellowship Hall, Kevin Ratza for setting up the music videos in the Sanctuary, all who donated cookies and hot cocoa bar items, and to Congregational Outreach for your assistance with hospitality – it made all the difference! At least 150 people visited inside our church and 300 came to see the Nativity scene. There were many comments on what a lovely church we have, several folks sat in the sanctuary to listen to the music, and crafts, goodies, and picture slide show were well received. Many appreciated use of bathrooms and took the opportunity to just hang out! It was a beautiful, memorable day, and it couldn't have been done without each of you!
